Seek Reduction Of Real Estate Taxes In State

Tri-County Tax Justice
League Hears President
Of State Organization

MEETING IS HELD AT COURT HOUSE

State Senator Batchelor
Says Part Of Earle's Budget Message Is Applesauce

Before a crowd of taxpayers of Lawrence, Beaver and Butler counties at the court house last night
the program of the Tax Justice League of Pennsylvania was presented by its president, H. Landis Shank of Lancaster, and the moves for real estate tax reduction in the legislative halls at Harrisburg reported by district legislators.

The audience last night comprised
the Tri-County Tax Justice league which represents the membership of the three county leagues of the 26th congressional district.

President Shank came direct from Harrisburg to pitch hit on the program for C. V. Shoup, executive director of the Allegheny County Real Estate Owners and Taxpayers league
and executive secretary of the lobby which the Tax Justice League of Pennsylvania has established at the capital. Mr. Shoup is ill.

Tax Relief On Real Estate.
"How will we get relief on our real estate?" asked Mr. Shank a short time after he opened his address.

"Well, we have two particular bills to offer—two bills that have already been introduced at Harrisburg," he continued. "A four-point program
was decided upon at a joint conference in Harrisburg and the two bills are a part of that program. One is the 'Pearson Delinquent Tax Bill'
and the other is known as the 'Ris-
ling-Moran-Stevens-Gates Bill' which removes all school taxes from real estate except under certain conditions."

The program that President Shank spoke of was reached in the joint deliberations of representatives of Mr. Shank's organization, the Pennsylvania Building & Loan association, the Pennsylvania Real Estate
Operators' association and the Pennsylvania state grange at Harrisburg
a short time ago.

Reports of league work in the three counties of the congressional district were brought early in the meeting by W. E. Sahli, Butler county; J. W. Pattison, Lawrence county, and Fisher Addis, Beaver county.

Presiding was H. W. Shaffer of New Brighton, president of the tri-county league. He took the chair after J. W. Pattison, Lawrence county representative, had informally opened the discussion. D. B. Thomas of New Brighton, secretary of the league, participated in the session.

Legislators Present.
Prominent legislators present who spoke were State Senator A. S.
Batchelor, Monaca; Assemblyman
James R. Kelso, Lawrence representative, and Assemblyman R. A. Nagel, Beaver representative. Assemblyman W. J. Eroo, Jr., this city, was out of town.

Ellwood Hold-Up Mystery Cleared

District Attorney Reports
Colored Man Admits
Robbery October 28

ARREST IS MADE
IN WEST VIRGINIA

With the confession of Charles T.
Haynes, colored, the mystery of the holdup of William Binsley in Ellwood City on October 26, was cleared up today. District Attorney Mont L. Ailey said.

Haynes was brought back from Fairmont, W. Va., by County Detective A. Sharp Leslie, Police Chief Morrison of Ellwood City, and State
Policeman Knudson, on Friday night.
Haynes was arrested in Fairmont,
W. Va., on a minor charge and word was sent to New Castle. The officers went to Fairmont and there Haynes is said to have confessed that on October 26, 1934, he held up William Binsley and robbed him of about $1,500 in cash and some $500
worth of checks and relief orders.
Haynes will be given a hearing before Squire Van Gorder of Ellwood City, where he will probably plead guilty and be remanded for sentence.

Dr. Townsend Much Dismayed

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The elderly and benign Dr. F. E. Townsend explained his now famous $200
a month old age pension plan to a skeptical senate finance committee,
and had rather a tough time of it.
When he had concluded his explanation, he seemed dismayed at the barrage of questions fired at him.
All persons 60 years of age and over would receive a pension of $200
every month from the government,
providing that the money was all
spent within the thirty day period,
under the proposal of Townsend.

Fails To Land Job By Hunger Strike

(International News Service)
HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 15.—The hunger strike which Richard Talbot hoped would land him a job in the movies, after he had walked the soles of his shoes thin, tramping from studio to studio, was ended today
and Talbot didn't have his job.
Police stepped in and confiscated
the box on which Talbot sat in front of the Paramount studios. They also took his "hunger strike" placard,
and released Talbot with the order
"get something to eat and look for a job."

No Successor To Marquis Elected

Due to the absence of Directors
A. C. Hyde and Dr. W. D. Cleland
Friday night, the New Castle school board took no action towards electing a successor to Secretary and Business Manager Hugh M. Marquis.
Mr. Marquis retires in June on age and the board has expected to elect his successor several months before retirement time in order that the new man may learn the work thoroughly.

There are a score or more of candidates for the position and it was thought that the election would be held Friday night. The board does not want to act in the matter until a full membership is present and for that reason passed the election on Friday night.

Kenamer Must Gamble For Life In Murder Trial

COURTROOM, Pawnee, Okla., Feb. 16.—Phil Kenamer must gamble for his life today.

It is all up to the curly-headed,
handsome boy defendant, who is on trial for the bizarre murder of 21-year-old John Gorrell, son of a Tulsa physician and a dental college student in Kansas City.

If young Phil, smiling, confident,
unmoved even when his father weeps
on the witness stand as he unfolds
the story of Phil's shortcomings
that made him a "problem" son almost from birth, takes the witness stand today he plays safe and may escape death or life in prison; if he gambles, stays off that chair in this little white-walled courthouse, he has a chance to win all—or go scot-free.

Man Be Manslaughtered.

Under Oklahoma law young Phil,
taking the witness stand, may be found guilty of manslaughter and with luck escape with a minimum of four years in prison.

If he does not testify in his own behalf he has a chance to go absolutely free—or die in the electric chair.

Gorrell was found shot to death
in his automobile in a lonely section of Tulsa last Thanksgiving night.

Young Phil, son of Federal Judge
Franklin E. Kenamer, confessed that he killed him. His attorneys said Phil was "so crazy" about Virginia Wilcox, beautiful 19-year-old daughter of Homer Wilcox, Tulsa oil multimillionaire, he "blew up" and not knowing "right from wrong," killed Gorrell because the student had framed a $20,000 extortion and

WILL ROGERS SAYS:

(Special To The News)
BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb.
16.—Wiley Post is leaving here any morning now, on the most hazardous flight yet, the most beneficial to aviation of any since Lindbergh.

He is pioneering a new world,
flying a long course at 35,000
feet was never attempted;
eight hours on oxygen is new.
He drops his landing gear on leaving; he has to come in on (pardon the expression, but it's all he has to land on) his "belly."

His propeller spins lower down
than the bottom of the plane.
He has to stop it and get it exactly crossways before landing or it will hit first and turn him a somersault.

It's a real scientific flight; if it works everybody will fly up there. It's an old style ship,

prayer, or at least a good wish for Wiley.

Street Paving Problem Up To School Board

Matter Of Meeting Cost Of
R. W. D. Paving In Front
Schools Presented

COMMITTEE WILL LOOK INTO MATTER

Two Situations Are Presented To Board At Meeting On Friday Night

Following the passage of the new street paving ordinance recently by the City of New Castle, the School Board has been presented with a problem that has been expected, that of paying its share of paving in front of schools. The matter came before the board Friday night when Mike Fazzone and Paul De Carbo appeared and asked the board to sign a paving petition for Reynolds and Friendship streets.

Mr. Fazzone presented his case for Reynolds street. The residents of the street between Scioto street and Pollock avenue are petitioning council to pave the street under the RWD plan, at an approximate cost to the taxpayers of $1.65 per running foot. Mr. De Carbo presented his case for Friendship street between Mill and Pollock. On both streets
there is school property.

Board Not Liable

The school board is not liable for paving costs in front of school property but the board members feel that they should co-operate to get certain school streets paved. Mr. Faz-zone stated that City Solicitor Robert M. White and one of the councilmembers had informed him that unless the school district joined in the petition the paving would not be done.

Said J. H. McIlvenny, "They may be giving you a lot of boloney, but at the same time I feel the board has a responsibility in the matter.
Several dirt streets on which schools are located should be paved. It would save a lot of dirt into the schools and give the youngsters a chance to get in without getting muddy feet. Hazen said he felt the same way about it but wanted to have the matter investigated a little more.

Upon motion of Bauman a committee will be appointed to look into the cases presented and return recommendations to the board for action. Other similar requests will be coming to the board later it is said.

Schools Facing Crisis On Funds

Legislation Is Needed To Continue Pay Basis
In Local Schools

BOARD DELAYING
ON BUDGET MAKING

Unless the present General Assembly passes remedial legislation,
the New Castle school board, along with other boards of the state, will be presented with a serious financial situation for the coming school year. The matter is so serious that the making of the budget for the coming year and the setting of the tax levy must be held up for some time.

In making budgets for the past two years the board has been permitted to hold in abeyance the $100
annual increment allowed for each teacher with less than eight years experience, and in addition has been permitted to pay the teachers
less than the Edmonds act permits.
In the case of New Castle the reduction has been 20 per cent, and in the past year 15 per cent.

The legislation permitting this an average attendance for January of 1,309 and a percentage attendance over all of 96 per cent.

Thaddeus Stevens school was high

North Street and Rose Avenue
showing but 91 per cent.
The report of the attendance officer, Miss Helen E. Wilson, showed 92 reports of cases investigated and

Limit Post Graduates To Single Semester In New Castle High

Post-graduate students in the New Castle senior high school will be limited to one semester and must be under the age of 21 in the future. This action was taken Friday night by the school board when the increasing number of post-graduates was brought to the attention of the board, along with the intense overcrowding of high school facilities.

In his report to the board Dr. C.
Green, superintendent of schools,
said that the post-graduate problem had become a burden. There are some students in the school who have taken two or three or more semesters of post-graduate work and in one case a college graduate is back in school taking work.

"What about emergency cases?"
asked Director Leonard W. Kramer.
"In cases of emergency an appeal to the board could be made," said Dr. Green.

Responsibility Is Felt.
Said J. H. McIlvenny: "We have a responsibility to the boys and girls who graduate from school. They get

Large Audience Sees Third Annual Y. W. Production On Friday

Romance still reigns in "Old Kaintuck" and the home folks hereabouts still like their romance straight with a dash of music.
"Sunny Skies" an opus of hoopskirts and hoopla proved it once again in the Cathedral, Friday night when about 2500 cash customers saw the third annual production of the Y. W. C. A.

"Sunny Skies" is cut to the usual pattern of amateur musicals. Several pairs of sympathetic hearts
beating in time, a few comedians, plenty of chorines, a bad man for the "mellerdrammer" effect, a lot of songs and soft music and tucked away neatly in the package a slightly different wording of the old saw that "love always finds a way." A collection of his trionic pretties strung on a thread of plot and the whole thing sugared off with music.

juncture which is as good as any

Hauptmann Now In State Prison At Trenton, N. J.

Prisoner Taken From Flem-
ington To Death House
This Morning

WILL BE UNDER
CONSTANT GUARD

Hauptmann Still Shouts His Innocence As Doors Of Prison Are Reached

By KENNETH T. DOWNS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 16
—Bruno Richard Hauptmann arrived at the New Jersey state prison, where he must pay with his life for the murder of Charles A.
Lindbergh, Jr., at 10:31 A.
M. today.

"I am innocent, absolutely innocent," Hauptmann cried, as he was taken from his automobile in front of the stone prison.

The mob roared. There were derisive cries, but some shouted: "You're right Bruno. We are with you."
Police cordons which had roped off the block, struggled with the mob as Hauptmann was rushed up the steps of the entrance.

A battery of news reel cameras stepped away from the tops of sound trucks and other point in front of the entrance as blue-uniformed state troopers tumbled out of their automobiles and formed a phalanx around the slender prisoner.
Just before Hauptmann reached the prison entrance a reporter
shouted: "Do you want to confess now, Bruno?"

"I Am Innocent"

Hauptmann yanked at his manacled wrists and snarled: "Get this into your head, I am innocent, absolutely innocent."
"If I had anything to confess, I would have confessed it a long time ago."

He was then rushed up a flight of stone steps and swallowed up by the door of the century old prison.

He was taken immediately to the office of Irving Bleam, gray-haired clerk, to be registered and assigned his number—17400. Bleam, a great criminal psychologist, who has drawn confessions from many condemned prisoners, will make the spin-lax Hauptmann "talk," prison officials boast.

Bleam assigned Hauptmann to cell
number nine in the death house.
The cell is less than six paces from the tiny execution chamber where Hauptmann is scheduled to die in the electric chair during the week of March 18.

After being registered and stripped of his belongings, Hauptmann was taken to a room farther inside the prison to be stripped and bathed and given one of the grayish-black uniforms worn by prisoners condemned to death. His head was to be shaved of its thin, brown hair he keeps so carefully combed.

Carnival Is Over
Acting Warden George A. Selby was considerably incensed at the crowd which struggled for a last glimpse of Hauptmann. He ordered cameramen off the steps of the prison entrance and angrily declared:

"The carnival is over when he goes in there. He's just a number from now on."

There are six other men in the death house scheduled to go to the electric chair. At least four of these

FRENCH FLIERS SEEKING NEW RECORD

Codos And Rossi Begin Journey

Will Fly To South America In Effort To Exceed Record Of 5,657 Miles

PAIR NOW HOLDS WORLD'S RECORD

(International News Service)
MARSEILLES, France, Feb. 16.—Attempting to shatter their own world record for long distance, straight-line flying, Paul Codos and Maurice Rossi, veteran French airmen, hopped out from here at 6:36 a. m. today for South America.
The fliers left Istres airport shortly after dawn, heading southwesterly. Their course lay across the Gulf of Lion, over the Spanish Mediterranean coast to Gibraltar, and thence across the Atlantic ocean.
The pair planned to fly as far as possible, intent particularly on beating the mark of 5,657 miles they set during August 5, 6, and 7, 1933, in flying from Floyd Bennett field, Brooklyn, to Rayak, Syria, and accompanied by the International Aeronautic Federation as the official world record.

In one attempt to beat this record Codos and Rossi made a spectacular non-stop flight from Paris to New York, reversing the famous Lindbergh flight, last May 27 and 28. They had intended flying without a stop to California for a record, but were compelled to land at Floyd Bennett field after covering only 3,610 miles because of violent wind vibrations which threatened to wreck their ship even before they reached the American coast.

LARGE AUDIENCE SEES THIRD ANNUAL PLAY

back to the old homestead to claim the plantation due to the ten year absence of Colonel Knight, known to the light of his life as "Tommykins." The colonel is assumed to be dead.

Colonel Andy Knight tosses a party for Bill and his playwriting friend Bob Day (page Cole Porter for the "Knight and Day" idea). Beverly Wyndram one of the Wyndrams who have had a feud with the Knights for "years and years" crashes the party and the Knight heart owned by Bill at the same time.

Both families have been shooting at sight for a couple of generations but in this case Cudos does all the shooting and what to do about it is the question. Bill and Bob import Frank Owens a Hollywood character man to impersonate the missing Colonel Knight in order to bring about a reconciliation of the two families. The Wyndram horse goes the night before the Derby and the only liniment that will cure him is a Knight secret. The payoff is that Owens is really Colonel Knight, he produces a bottle of the Knight liniment for the Wyndram horse. Everything turns out for the best and the "sun shines bright in my old Kentucky home."

About The Cast
There were a couple of cases of grand larceny in the show. Given the juvenile part of Little Eva, Little Miss Cecelia Turner proceeded to steal the show in the first act, and kept it stolen. Part of her success may have been due to the fact that the author pointed his richest gags at her, but the larger reason was the fact that this little miss has a bundle of talent and an elegant voice. Helping her steal the show away from the principals was a pair of colored artists, Mrs. Arthur Thomas and Earl Brown, who gallivanted through the two acts in a way that captured the fancy of the folks out beyond the footlights.

The two primary leads, Beverly Wyndram and Bill Knight were taken by Miss Ruth M. Lewis and Charles A. Crowl. The author didn't do right by them but they certainly did right by the author. And in a big way. The secondary leads, Nora Stanhope and Bob Day, were taken by Dorothy Jean Wallace and Robert Hoose, a pair of stalwarts who can always be counted on to come through. To this pair add H. J. Culliford, who took the part of Frank Owens and J. C. Williams who was Colonel Andy Knight.

The comedy was in the hands of De Luce Cole and Miss Elizabeth Milholland and mighty good hands, says we. As Elmer Nelson, Mr. Cole had a chance to display his unique ability as a comedian not to mention a physique that defies description while Miss Milholland had the part of Cordelia Straw, an old maid with a good memory for romance. The "heavy" part of Jeff Wyndram was played by Chris Clark, with Claude Crill and Tom D. Weddell in as Guests. With that cast of principals you could put on most any production you cared to and all of them did their bit with ease and style. In addition, a platoon of Troop F put on a military drill with precision.

Other Features
Like a small boy who licks the meringue off a lemon pie, this scribe was taken by the features. For example the Dream Kiddies chorus, when a bit of a tot by name Eileen Murphy led her cohorts through the "Good Ship Lollipop." This little tike had the audience in the palm of her hand as long as she was on the stage. "Go Into Your Dance" brought out a chorus of cuties who didn't even have to dance to get by but they did dance, and right well. Gomer Griffith, a young man who isn't too well known in public sang and after his appearance you'll be hearing more of him we hope. Another male singer who got by was James A. Bowman. For solo dancing there were Nellie Brady and Billie Glenn and you can take them separately or consider them together and you still add up to 100 per cent. To these features add the Montanary Sisters, Betty Conover, Willie Leonhardt, Walter Smith, Ulisses Walker, and Thelma Stuart.

Appreciative Audience
It was an appreciative audience, and none of the performers got their share of applause. The stage setting was a rather lovely bit of work and served as a colorful background for a talented group of youngsters.

And now that we've given the artists their due, we'd like to add a word for a group that seldom is mentioned but without which any amateur show would be totally sunk. Its the women back of this show. Under the general direction of Mrs. John Elliott and the specific direction of Mrs. Roy A. Long a group of women sold the show to the public and they did a real job of selling. Usually "unhonored and unsung," we'd like to give these workhorses of the amateur theatrical field a nice big hand for they surely have it coming.

The selection of talent was in the hands of Mrs. Robert Eckles, advertising, Mrs. De Luce Cole, chaperones and costumes, Mrs. Cassius Balph, and Miss Margaret Williams, printing, Mrs. O. P. Brown, publicity, Mrs. A. B. Fankhouser, properties, Mrs. Charles T. Metzler. Here's to you ladies.

And there you have "Sunny Skies." Not a big show, not particularly different from its ancestors and its coming generations, but good enough to provide two hours of pleasure for a big audience and a nice piece of profit for a worthy organization, the Y. W. C. A.

NEW COMMANDER HAS HAD RAPID RISE

mand of the troop followed on December 1, 1931.

Familiar With Duties
Lieut. Mitchell is familiar with the duties of troop commander, as he served in this capacity for over five months, while Captain Blintrin was attending a cavalry officer's school at Fort Riley, two years ago, during which period the annual federal inspection of the troop occurred.

The new troop commander states that the officers of the troop will be open this afternoon and Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, for the deposit of equipment in preparation for the check by the quartermaster general's office. Drill sessions will take place on Tuesday evening, instead of Friday evening, to permit a complete checkup of all physical equipment of the troop, when Major George P. Drake, of Harrisburg will be present.

Lieut. Mitchell expects to recruit the troop to full strength immediately, in preparation for the coming summer encampment. There are several vacancies in the troop, due to resignations and the expiration of enlistments, and these will be filled as soon as possible.

out onto the streets, can find no jobs and are candidates for mischief. Surely we can find means of caring for those who wish to remain in school."

Said Green: "That is true, we do have a responsibility but we do not have the facilities to handle them."

Said W. W. Duff: "Has the board ever thought of installing a freshman year of college work in this school system? We have a vacant building, the cost of instructors would probably be offset by the saving in the senior high school and all we would have to do would be light and heat the building. It might be a solution of this question."

Dr. Green agreed that the idea had merit and it may be brought up again. In the meantime a curb will be placed on the length of time a student can take post-graduate work in the senior high school.

SUSPECTED OF STEALING COAT

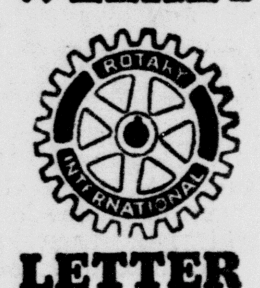

George Bashor was arrested at a local bus station last night on suspicion of stealing an overcoat, cigarette lighter and $3 in cash. The coat belonged to William Reynolds, Jr., 522 East Moody avenue. He denied he stole the coat, money and cigarette lighter and was turned back to city detectives for further inquiry when he faced Mayor Mayne. The coat and cigarette lighter were found at the place where Bashor roomed.

WEEKLY

LETTER

The Castleton.
Monday, Feb. 18, 1935.
12:15 to 1:30 P. M.

Fellow Rotarian:
Do you know that a lifetime is sometimes spent in weaving one's oriental rug? Do you know that every design has some significance in the history of the people who weave these rugs? Or do you only know that oriental rugs are expensive?

We will have Mr. Kamel Rashid tell us about "Oriental Rugs." Walter Duff arranged for this program and it shows the studios esthetic tastes developed by constant attendance at school board meetings after a day spent making little ones out of big limestones.

It was first thought that it might be nice to invite the ladies but some of the wiser men felt that it might lead to expensive tastes being developed so the ladies are not invited.

Fred Rentz attended Miami Rotary and Clare Book at Butler. Remember the meeting with New Wilmington Rotary on Monday evening.

practice expired on December 31, so that as the matter stands just now the New Castle school board is obliged to pay the full Edmonds act salaries and add the increments due for about 100 teachers. The total would approximate $50,000, or about one mill on the property tax.

The board does not wish to raise the school millage. It would prefer to lower it, but this is beyond the possibility of chance. Unless the General Assembly does something in the matter, the New Castle school board will certainly have to add not less than one mill to the school levy of 15 mills, with the possibility that more may be needed.

Thus far nothing has been said or done in the General Assembly towards easing the burden on real estate. All of the governor's tax proposals are for the purpose of building up the general fund. The local board is delaying the making of the new budget pending some possibility of action by the General Assembly.

Anniversary Of Maine Observed

Spanish War Veterans Commemorate Event Which Cause War Of '98

PROGRAM GIVEN AFTER DINNER

Those veterans of '98, who participated in the conflict with Spain, "remember the Maine," last evening, when members of the Col. Daniel Leasure Camp, United Spanish War Veterans, and their friends gathered in the Legion Home, filling it with a capacity crowd.

The affair was in charge of Commander George Davies, and a committee, consisting of George W. Muse, Charles H. Young, and Walter S. Reynolds. Dinner was served at 6:30, following which the program of the evening was carried out, with George W. Muse, presiding.

The program was as follows: Address, "The Sunken Maine"—Dr. C. C. Green, Past Commander. Vocal Solo—Florence Longstreth accompanied by Melba Brickner. Piano Solo—Mary Lou Fenati.

Two duets—Sara Nitsche and Josephine Jenkins. Reading—Glady Brown. Two Vocal Solos—Bob Cassey. Dialogue—Glady Brown and Audrey Bredenbaugh.

Vocal Solo—Alma Longstreth. Reading, "Bill's in Trouble"—Florence Longstreth.

Dr. Green stressed the fact that ex-soldiers do not favor war. He showed the part that propaganda played in the creation of sentiment favorable to the intervention in Cuba. He showed the desire of certain financial interest to protect investments in that Island. He reviewed the costs to this government of Porto Rico, Hawaii and the Philippine Islands, all of which came under the jurisdiction of the United States as a result of the Spanish War.

The program was under the direction of Betty Glover assisted by Iva Mayberry, both of the George Washington High School and was given by pupils of said school.

At 9:15 every one stood in silence for one minute in memory of the 265 officers and men who lost their lives on this night 37 years ago. After this a program of amusement was carried out under the direction of Frank S. Nessel, Orville Van Horn and Homer C. Drake. The wives of all the departed members of the Camp had been invited as special guests.

The Ladies Auxiliary prepared and served the dinner under the direction of the following committee:

LOSSES FROM CASUALTIES, THEFT, AND WAGERS

To be deductible, a loss arising from "fires, storms, shipwrecks, or other casualty" need not be connected with the taxpayer's trade or business. If his home or his automobile is destroyed by fire, or his summer bungalow damaged by flood or storm, he may claim a deduction for the loss sustained.

Loss of property by theft or burglary is an allowable deduction, and need not be incurred in trade or business. Hence, the loss occasioned by the theft of jewelry or an automobile used for pleasure and convenience is deductible. It must be established, however, that the property actually was stolen. Should circumstances attending the loss leave the owner in doubt as to whether it was stolen or lost, the claim would not be allowed. Losses from wagering transactions are allowable only to the extent of the gains from such transactions. A loss is deductible only in the year in which it is sustained, even though, as in the case of a theft or casualty, it may not be discovered until a later year. Losses compensated for by insurance or otherwise, of course, are not deductible. However, in the event the amount of insurance is not sufficient to recompense for the loss sustained, the excess of the loss over the amount of the insurance is deductible.

A good dish for cold weather is sweet potatoes and pork chops in casserole. Parboil potatoes, put in casserole, sprinkle with salt, pepper and little brown sugar. Cover with chops, also seasoned. Put in enough water to come well up on potatoes and bake at 375 degrees until chops are done and brown on top.

PHYLLIS CUNNINGHAM BRIDE OF W. J. DIETZ

Among the outstanding social events of the week was a dinner given Friday evening in The Castleton, when Misses Martha Matthews and Elsie Kline entertained 34 guests.

The affair was a medium for announcing the marriage of Miss Phyllis L. Cunningham of West Clayton street to William J. Dietz of Pittsburgh, which took place on January 19 in Wellsburg, W. Va. The Rev. William J. Frayer of the Presbyterian church performed the ceremony.

Uniquely revealed was the interesting news, in that it was disclosed between the salad and dessert course of an excellent dinner, Miss Nannie L. Mitchell was handed a telegram containing the information, and of course she couldn't keep the good news, for the bride has been a very dear associate of this particular group of guests for the past six years, serving as the very efficient secretary at both the Mahoningtown and West Side schools.

Appointments throughout the dinner were of a Valentine nature, each place being marked with a miniature lacy missive. The centerpiece was an artistic arrangement of pink roses, aralia, sea lavender and freesia.

Evening hours were given over to bridge and 500, the favors falling to Misses Beatrice Brice and Helen B. McQueen. Out-of-town guests were Misses Mary Etta and Elma Hodil of Pittsburgh.

Mrs. Dietz, who is the daughter of Mrs. Bessie Cunningham of West Clayton street, is a graduate of the New Castle high school, class 1928. After June 15 she will sever her connection with the local school system and go to Pittsburgh to reside. Mr. Dietz is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Dietz of Pittsburgh. He is a graduate of Allegheny high school and is now affiliated with the Lutz and Schram Company in Pittsburgh as manager of the order department.

A host of good wishes is being extended the young couple by their scores of friends in New Castle and the Pittsburgh district.

TRI-COUNTY COUNCIL HAS DINNER MEETING

Places were arranged for 125 persons Thursday evening in the Legion Home when the Tri-County Council of the V. F. W., which included Butler, Mercer and Lawrence counties, met here.

Attractive Valentine appointments were used in decorations and a delicious dinner was served with Mrs. Mary Cox and Mrs. Della Evans heading the kitchen and dining room committees. At conclusion of dinner, Mrs. E. J. Suber, for the council, presented Mrs. Evelyn Woods, president, with a lovely gift as a mark of appreciation for her splendid work in the council, of which she is president this year.

Department Commander Joseph Stack and wife, of Pittsburgh, were special guests.

Concluding dinner the council and post had a joint business meeting, with the department commander giving a splendid address on the seven point program. Mrs. Genevieve Staff of Pittsburgh, hospital chairman, spoke of her departmental work and Mrs. Gertrude Smith of Butler, staff officer, spoke briefly.

BUSINESS AND SOCIAL MEETING ON FRIDAY

Combining business and pleasure Friday afternoon, about 100 members of the women's co-operative traffic program committee of the B. and O. R. R. had a splendid meeting in the lodge room in the City building.

Mr. Joseph Quigley, chairman, presided, and after singing a number of pep songs with Mrs. A. P. Zeiler at the piano, the speaker of the afternoon, C. N. Fullerton, of Washington, Ind., was introduced.

Mr. Fullerton gave an interesting talk on pertinent railroad matters which was much enjoyed. The program following included a reading by Vera Betty Walter and three guitar selections by Billy Horean, J. L. Thoman, chairman of the men's C. T. P. was heard, his remarks being well chosen, and Earl Hammond sang a group of songs.

Bingo featured the afternoon's entertainment after the program. Luncheon was served from a prettily decorated table, which was adorned with crystal and silver candlesticks, with red candles combined with Valentine colors.

NOT SO RURAL

A GENERATION ago there was a much sharper line between city and country than there is today.

Today, the average farmer of highly developed Pennsylvania counties is a man who knows all anybody should want to know about a big city, and who prefers to live 10, 20 or 50 miles out of the congestion.

Some of the things that have helped to make every wide-awake farmer as alert and informed as his fellow citizens in town are supposed to be included the rural free delivery of mail, the penetration of railroads into the hill country, the construction of hard-surfaced highways for automobiles, and adoption of the radio in every home.

State College has done much for Pennsylvania farmers, both to those who have taken longer or shorter courses there, and those who have profited by experiments carried on at that institution.

Every graduate who engages in work as a milk tester, county agent, market news man, or teacher in any line of agriculture, is a missionary of that scientific farming which not only tends to make farming more profitable, but which helps to make every farmer a citizen of the world.

The farmer today is a business man who happens to have his enterprise located on so many score or hundreds of acres.

Of course he is more than a business man, including a philosopher, else he could not stand the ups and downs of the game. When he gets together with an executive in a shoe factory, or a glass company, or a newspaper, their talk is interesting, because they are two business men discussing methods. It makes no difference at all that one of them has a little more fresh air around his project than does the other.

TRUMPETS AND DRUMS

Circumstances seem to have been arranged for an Italian-Abyssinian conflict of major proportions. Soldiers are marching in Italy. Two divisions are ordered to mobilize. Civilians are putting on uniforms; a reserve class is called back into actual service. The very atmosphere is charged with war fever, which is easy to arouse when trumpets sound and drums beat. And, to make the crisis more acute, the King of Kings, as the ruler of a small warrior nation is known to his subjects, has thrown down the gauntlet of defiance to Mussolini and the power of Italy.

This seems a reckless gesture but there is a sustaining tradition behind it. Back in 1896, Italy and Abyssinia were at war and in the battle of Adowa the crude soldiers of the King of Kings lured the Italian troops into a trap and decimated them. Italy fared poorly in the conflict and, in consequence, Abyssinia has known little of the element of fear in her relations with Italy.

Of course, Italy has changed since then and her ancient semi-barbarous enemy has remained virtually as she was. Such a warfare would be a grim, unequal business which would reflect nothing but discredit upon Premier Mussolini, who seems determined to emulate the conduct of Japan in Manchuria and to enhance the military prestige of Italy at the expense of a little nation.

WHO IS AMERICA'S PUBLIC BORE NO. 1?

England may take its humor seriously, but it's almost a shock to learn that as the result of an "Unpopularity Contest" George Bernard Shaw rates the title of Britain's "Public Bore No. 1." Nor is it quite obvious why Amy Mollison, England's first lady of the air, and Greta Garbo, Sweden's most illustrious contribution to pictorial emotion, were voted borsese public figures. It is strange, in this connection, that Lady Astor did not receive honorable mention.

However, the peculiar outcome of the British ballot may stir speculation as to what man, or woman, would receive the accolade as America's greatest bore—or boss. Might final honors go to Brain Trustee Tugwell, Huey Long, Pastmaster of Politics Farley? Or would it be simpler to say Theodore Dreiser and end all arguments?

As for the women, no matter what the British may think of Amy Mollison it is a certainty that Americans would not classify their Amelia Earhart Putnam in the bore category. In this country there must be many women definitely on the tiresome side, but is it necessary to list them? In most cases they mean well, and we'd like them a lot if only they didn't have a message! And anyhow, top-notchers may come and go, but the bores are always with us.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

WE'RE NOT SO SMART

The intelligence of the American people is gradually deteriorating at a rate of about 1 per cent in each generation, according to Dr. Norman E. Himes, Colgate University sociologist, and if the trend continues it will have profound and probably unpleasant effects on American democratic society.

The trouble, as eugenicists have pointed out before, is that people who are well-equipped genetically to endow their children with desirable qualities are having fewer children than those less well equipped.

"The sources of intelligent leadership are gradually drying up," says Dr. Himes. "The rate of 1 per cent, which seems slow, is, as biological changes go, actually very rapid."

One comfort is that the present trend in birth rates may be only a temporary thing. Individual attitudes and social viewpoints have been shifting tremendously in the last few decades; when the shift slows down, the present trend in birth rates may be completely reversed.

IT IS CATCHING

A wealthy man engaged an English tutor for his son. "Take him up into the mountains," he said, "and break him of the habit of using slang. Don't let him talk to anyone but you."

"I will jolly well do that," replied the tutor.

Two months later, the pair returned home. The anxious father rushed up to the tutor for a report. "Did you have a successful trip?" he asked of the cultured Englishman.

"You're darn tootin' we did," was the genteel reply.

SPRING, THAT'S ALL

THE DAYS get longer. There's still a little daylight after supper, and children beg to play outdoors for just fifteen minutes. Parents say yes, if they won't stay more than just fifteen minutes. . . . A warm night breeze blows and the children linger and father must go out to get them in, at last. . . . It's the spring.

The trees put a few blossoms on and small green leaves pop out. . . . small but definite defiance of winter. Down there in the frozen and rain-soaked earth there's a stirring of life. . . . Can't see it. Can't feel it. But you know it's there. Turn over a spadeful of earth—and you'll see a pale green something waiting to leap out—give it half a chance. In the summer it will be a gay flower or a mighty weed. Respect it now.

Birds twitter and quarrel on a million brown twigs. Puppy dogs go vagabond. Cats get restless and ask you impudently why they should be restrained o' nights. . . . Horses kick up their heels and run to fences to watch human creatures go past. Even cows lift their heads and stare. . . . The farmer takes to his plow. You see him in his fields, followed by hungry birds, shouting to his horses or riding his tractor proudly. . . . This will be a good year, he hopes, the best year yet. And it's good for a man to be out here, working his own land, happily toiling in the rich odors of the up-turned soil.

Chickens scratch. Wives take their houses to pieces. Youths and maidens see each other anew. The world has turned, the sun is moving north. . . . Old Mother Nature hops out of bed in her long cotton nightgown, throws back the curtains on her new world and says: "There! That's the way I like things to be. All you children scramble out of here and make things fly. Do the best you can with my new-made world. Lazy little rascals, show me what stuff you are made of!"

SOBER MIEN DOES NOT NECESSARILY DENOTE DEEP WISDOM. Too many people seem to have the opinion that the one who smiles easily is not a practical and sound thinker.

Wisdom, learning, culture and deep thinking is associated entirely with persons of sober mien.

Too often such persons fail to take the recreation or relaxation that is needed to keep them fit.

Though they have fabled nerves and bodies weariness they do not spare themselves in pursuit of matters that interest them.

But they fail to take into consideration the fact that their tense methods shorten their lives and the period of serious work.

It is a shortened perspective that causes a man to be "too busy."

He becomes one-sided in his deductions and narrow in his avenues of thought.

There must be respite from concentrated thought to have the thought worth anything.

You hear a lot about "liquidating" nowadays and keeping in a "fluid state." Don't cause your mind to crack from too much strain.

Loosen up.

The one who can smile and relax might be said to be in that mental condition which oils the machinery of body and mind. Try it. Smile.

THE OLD-FASHIONED IDEAS

Cynics will shake their heads and say

Hard work is but an empty phrase;

That fortunes are not made that way;

That only clever shrewdness pays.

They'll say the plodder poor remains.

The man of thrift must thrifty stay;

That earnest workers for their pains

Get little more than weekly pay.

The modern youth is urged to fling

The trite old-fashioned rules aside.

There must be easier ways that bring

The joys of triumph and of pride.

But, son of mine, please don't forget

When talk like this you chance to hear

There hasn't been an idler yet

Who's had a profitable year.

When you are tempted not to work

Because your goal seems far away

Just bear in mind that men who shirk

Are doomed to failure where they stay.

Though thrift and earnest toil are slow

At least the gains they make endure.

And where's the loafer who can show

A method that is half so sure?

So let the mockers rave and rant

And call old-fashioned teachings trite.

Our mottoes may be partly cant

But also they are partly right.

You work and save and if you miss

The goal by some hard circumstance

Your consolation can be this:

At least you gave yourself a chance.

Hubby—The bank has returned that check.

Wife—Isn't that splendid! What can we buy with it this time?

Askem: "Who beat you up?"

Know it: "You see, it's this way. I took my girl to a restaurant, she found a fly in her soup. She called the waiter and said: 'Take this insect out of here.'"

Askem: "So what?"

Knows it: "So he threw me down a flight of stairs."

The pretty young stenographer who succeeded in marrying her boss must have found the typewriter keys to his heart.

The proof of the young wife's pudding is sometimes found in the doctor's bill.

SURPRISE

He was at the fountain-pen counter, making a purchase, "You see, I am buying this for my wife" he said.

"A surprise, eh?" ventured the clerk.

"I'll say so. She is expecting an automobile."

A man always wants to be first in a woman's life, but a woman prefers to be last in a man's.

The average man lives one-third of his life without sin. He spends that much of his life sleeping.

With the recent spectacle of the Hauptmann case fresh in our minds and that of the Vallee case, we wonder what the courts of our land are coming to. They should hire an auditorium and charge an admission. It would help defray the tremendous cost of many of the extended trials.

Canada boasts that its rail rates are the cheapest in the world. But also, we can't go to Canada to ship our things about.

Mayor Mayne's castor oil treatment seems to be turning into something of a boomerang, since the drunks are coming back for more. Whether it's the taste of the stuff or its effect upon the system we don't know, but if the drunks still keep coming round it won't be long until the mayor will have to change his title to "Doctor Mayne."

Reform: An age-long effort to spoil the good times of the idle rich.

Mr. Roosevelt's hardest job is to keep the new Congressmen remembering that they were elected to cooperate—not to boss.

The woman was not called a "help-mate" but "help meet"—like "help meet expenses."

There's one consolation. When Jakes makes a law, the President still has power to veto it.

There are a lot of things that give us a pain besides politicians. One of them is Lumbago. No, this is not a man's name, so there's no use looking in the city directory for his first name. Lumbago is an affliction that isn't particular who it attacks, but shows more discrimination on where. It just as likely to strike one of the best citizens as one of our worst, and the mean thing about lumbago is that it always hits you when your back is turned. Sometimes it sneaks up on tiptoe and at others, it comes with the suddenness of a bolt of lightning. It's not necessarily serious, but we wish the legislature would do something about it, anyhow.

Considering the number of matrimonial wrecks strewn along the sands of time, the words, "love, honor and obey" should be changed to "stop, look, and listen."

Just imagine what the status of labor must have been 100 years ago, when, in 1842, Great Britain found it necessary to make a law that women and children under the age of ten years be forbidden to work in coal mines.

Parents, a psychologist says, should tell all their family secrets to their children. So the neighbors will get the information straight the first time.

More women than ever are taking up the law, and still more are laying it down.

Gambling is permitted in the Nevada state penitentiary, the warden stating that it gave the inmates an incentive to life. Well, when Nevada invites the rest of the world to come out and gamble, there is no reason why the convicts shouldn't also.

Roosevelt Could Build Factories

President Under Work Relief Bill Could Build Any Number Of Factories

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—President Roosevelt can build federal shoe, clothing or furniture factories, to provide work for the unemployed, under his $4,880,000,000 work-relief bill, it was conceded in the senate this afternoon by administration leaders.
Senator Carter Glass (D) Virginia, also declared the president could have closed down mills or newspapers under the terms approved by the house. He offered this reason for the action of the senate appropriations committee in denying the president the power to use the huge work fund to "relieve economic maladjustments."
A coalition of Republicans and Democrats meanwhile demanded the administration explain a $2,000,000,000 mystery in its work program. The mystery developed when the public works administration revealed it could find only $2,000,000,000 of projects that could be completed before June 30, 1937, when the $4,880,000,000 fund terminates. The coalition demanded to know just how the president proposed to spend the other $2,880,000,000.

AROUND CITY HALL

Police chronology for 24 hours ending at 3:30 p. m. February 15, eight arrests on charges as follows: Drunkenness, 3; disorderly conduct, 1; keeper of disorderly house, 1; visitors to disorderly house, 3.

Decision of council to have the chiefs of the police and fire departments and the city solicitor make whatever steps are necessary to abate an alleged nuisance in an auto wrecking yard here recalls the effort a year or more ago to place an auto wrecking yard along Grant street which is one of the main routes into the city. Council frowned on the proposal and it is probable they will continue to protect the property-owners of streets where such would affect property values.

Building here during 1934 cost $97,555, according to statistics released today by Neil Williams of the building bureau. During the year only two houses were built at a total cost of $8,800. Garages cost $5,470 and service stations, $15,400. A public garage building cost $2,000 and a storage building cost $2,500. There were 11 small buildings erected at a cost of $2,905 and an industrial building cost $20,000. A standpipe building permit was issued and when built it will cost $6,000. It was figured in the 1934 cost. Fences and billboards, $12,650 and remodeling of buildings, $21,380, brought the total construction cost to $97,555.

In connection with the building operations for 1934, it might be reported that $97,555 is the least spent for some years. Here are the figures: 1925, $2,371,323; 1926, $2,306,810; 1927, $3,038,925; 1928, $1,470,210; 1929, $1,110,965; 1930, $514,865; 1931, $245,270; 1932, $166,870 and 1933, $321,535. In 1925 there were 274 houses built here, 219 in 1926, 156 in 1927, 133 in 1928, 63 in 1929, 49 in 1930, 30 in 1931, 10 in 1932, 8 in 1933 and 2 last year. And while this does not read very good the fact remains that under very good conditions do pick up there will be plenty of building.

The city council purchased a Reo truck yesterday. On the face of the bids it appears they picked the most costly truck. In explanation the officials said they selected the truck because it would more properly suit the purpose for which it was desired. And now the city intends to purchase a new grader—it will not be long until the grader is bought. It will be here in plenty of time for spring work. The weather conditions which have prevailed recently have put streets in a bad condition. No one knows in a bad condition than the attaches of the street department. They have had difficulty obtaining ashes to put in such places as Euclid avenue along which there is located one of the biggest public institutions in the city, the George Washington Junior high school.

Josef Stalin Is Closely Guarded

Elaborate Precautions Are Taken To Guard Life Of Communist General Secretary

Home Is Kept Secret, Methods Of Travel Unknown, Journeys Not Made Public

Josef Stalin, dictator of Soviet Russia, is more closely guarded than any other world figure, Lindsey Parrott, International News Service Correspondent in Moscow, tells in the following "close-up" of the Bolshevik chieftain.

MOSCOW, Feb. 16.—The most carefully guarded man in the world is Josef Stalin, general secretary of the communist party and Russia's "man of steel."

The elaborate precautions that surround such noted institutions as the White House in Washington or the crown jewels of Great Britain are child's play compared to those the Soviet union takes to protect its leader.

And when the assassins of Sergei Mironitch Kirov planned, as the Soviet courts allege they did, a "terroristic act" against Stalin, they proved themselves the world's most optimistic criminals.

Protective Wall
Force and secrecy in equal proportions are the two components of the protective wall built around the red chief.

No stranger to the inner councils knows, officially, where Stalin lives, except that it is somewhere in that walled and moated medieval labyrinth, the Kremlin.

Hundreds of soldiers guard the castle. The Kremlin has its private garrison, drawn from the picked troops of the commissariat of the interior, the former GPU, and under the command of a strict, bearded old Bolshevik named Peters.

Travels Secretly
Outsiders never learn when, or where, Stalin travels. Newspapers publish news of his arrivals, sometimes, but of his departures never.

When Stalin left, unannounced, for Leningrad after Kirov's murder, the station was packed with soldiers. Ordinary citizens were warned off the premises entirely. Even the official courier of the American embassy had difficulty reaching his train.

And last summer, when Stalin spent a vacation on the shores of the Black Sea, the official press mentioned neither his departure, his whereabouts nor his return to Moscow. His signature at the foot of an official decree notified the populace of his return to duty.

Whether the Russian leader himself, in fear of his life, has ordered such precautions is unknown. But recently, since the assassination the regime of protection has appeared stricter.

G. O. P. Presidential Aspirants

Herbert Hoover and Gov. Harold Hoffman (right), of New Jersey, two of the high ranking Presidential hopes of the Republicans for 1936, are seen meeting for the first time at the National Republican Club, in New York. Hoffman was elected in Jersey last November in face of Democratic landslide. Will 1936 bring a parallel for 1912, when ex-President Roosevelt, running against President Taft split the vote and enabled a governor of New Jersey, Wilson, to win? (Central Press)

In the case of Mabel B. Long against James Sakleson and the State Auto Insurance Association, garnishee, Judge James A. Chambers has handed down an opinion in which a rule granted to show cause why petitioner should not be permitted to file an amendment to the statement is made absolute, and the petition is amended. The case is one growing out of an automobile accident.

In the case of the Ohio-Pennsylvania Joint Stock Land Bank, of Cleveland, O., use of the Union Joint Stock Land Bank of Michigan against Arthur W. and Sarah Kegarise, which came before the court on a petition to open judgment and stay an execution, Judge James A. Chambers handed down an opinion in which the rule is dissolved. The case involves a note for $2,500, given in connection with a mortgage to plaintiffs on land in Pulaski township. The land is now owned by S. G. Goodman, Jr. When the petition for stay of execution was presented in court it was claimed by defendant that there had been an agreement under which

Death For Hauptmann.
Useful Warning.
$850,000,000 For $49,000.
Poor Ethiopia.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

HAUPTMANN, in the language of crime, will "burn" in the electric chair the week of March 18. Few of the delays that make our legal system more profitable to lawyers than to justice, will play any part in this matter. Public opinion would not tolerate it, although granting one appeal is mandatory.

Organized crime is warned, once more, that kidnapping means death. The warning means little, for you cannot deal successfully with small-pox by attacking each sore as it appears on the surface, or imitating savages that scrape the entire body with sharp shells. It is necessary to go deeper and stop the small-pox.

The United States must go deeper than killing an occasional criminal. It must find a way to inspire respect for law.

NEWSPAPERMEN and others trained in the observation of crime had no doubt of the prisoner's guilt. The judge's charge clearly expressed his belief that guilt had been proved and one of Hauptmann's own lawyers told a reporter what the verdict would be, before the jury had been out five minutes, although he did not speak for publication.

There was doubt in the mind of some jurors, as proved by discussion, lasting more than eleven hours. Perhaps it was doubt as to the degree of guilt, although that would seem improbable. If he kidnapped that child, no punishment could be too great.

All four of the women jurors wept after sending Hauptmann to death; their tears due to emotion caused by painful duty.

NO MALE juror wept, and in New York State, where a law is proposed permitting women to sit on juries, some will say that weeping indicates woman's unfitness for jury work.

Others, more intelligent, will say it proves that women should sit on juries, the tears demonstrating higher emotion and conscientiousness.

ONE MISERABLE creature, more or less, staring in horror at the death chair, straining at the straps as the mysterious current enters the brain through the shaven skull and goes out through the calf of the leg, does not help justice.

But cold-blooded criminals, planning for profit crimes not based on sudden impulse or the desperation of hunger, will consider carefully the profit and loss possibilities in kidnapping.

Bruno Richard Hauptmann, walking through the little door that leads to the death chair, may convince other professional criminals planning a "snatch" that kidnapping, with its uncertainties, plus the electric chair when convicted, does not pay.

THE CONVICTION of Hauptmann confirms the statement that Al Capone, jailed in Chicago for failure to pay his income tax, made to this writer, who visited him immediately after the Lindbergh kidnapping, urging him to help trace the child through his many crime connections.

Capone said: "If they let me out I will put my kid brother here in my place as hostage. I don't suppose anybody would suggest that I would doublecross my own brother. I'll go out and see what I can do. I have many angles, and if this kidnapping is a regular job by any regular mob, some one of my angles ought to turn up something."

"But take it from me, this is not the work of a regular mob. They would know too much to try that kind of crime. It is the work of some fool operating on his own account."

CAPONE WAS not released to utilize his "angles" and it turns out that his judgment was sound. "A fool, working on his own account," did commit the shocking crime. And he will pay for it, according to the Bible formula. In ancient days he would have been tortured slowly to death, perhaps as Ravillac was tortured after he killed Henry the Fourth, with atrocities too horrible, including the final torture of pouring melted lead into his intestines through the navel, followed by the cooking and eating of pieces of his flesh on various Paris street corners.

Beaver Falls High Trips New Castle

Score 32 To 24 Victory To Practically Cinch Section Three Title Here

Harnett and Tuscano Top Scorers In Wild Game, New Castle Fails To Hold Lead

NEW CASTLE high school basketball team saw the Section Three championship growing dimmer and dimmer last night at George Washington high school gym as Beaver Falls high with a clever passing attack defeated the Red and Black clad team, 32 to 24, to take a two-game lead in the circuit. New Castle plays one more game with Butler at Butler. Beaver Falls meets New Brighton and Butler yet, and needs but one victory to clinch the title providing New Castle defeats Butler.

Fail To Hold Lead
The New Castle high team fell to pieces in the second half after holding a tremendous lead of 12 to 4 at the end of the first period and ahead 17 to 13 at the end of the first half. The "Fallies" had a hard time to get under way, but once they did find the range of the baskets, they made it plenty tough. Coach Joe McCandless presented one of the smoothest passing teams seen here this year and a team that should get somewhere later on.

Harnett-Tuscano Lead
Harnett was the high scorer in the battle with 11 points, while Harry Tuscano was second high man with 10 points. In the first half of the battle Lesinski, the big Beaver Falls center, secured three personals and was taken out near the end of the half, he came back for the second half and didn't commit a violation, but he did late the basket for two nice shots that dropped the New Castle hopes a notch lower. Harry Tuscano was forced out or four personals after playing a fine game. Koszela dropped in a couple of nice field goals and so did Brown, Ostrosky, Tachovsky and Wertz played fine basketball for the visitors.

Hard Fought Game
It was a nip and tuck affair all during the last half, with Beaver Falls leading most of the way. At the end of the third period it was 27 to 19. New Castle had hard luck in locating the hoops in the second half making but two field goals, one being credited to "Jap" Covilli on a nice attempt.

New Castle just couldn't match the visitors in smooth team play and passing, being one of the big reasons for the defeat.

Beaver Falls Reserves Win
New Castle had a warning of what was to follow when the Beaver Falls high reserves handed the New Castle preliminaries a 30 to 28 defeat in the preliminaries game, with Sterling, Rose, Killian, DeCaprio and Adams doing the bulk of the scoring.

Duquesne Trims Long Island U.

(International News Service)

As part of a "double-header" in which New York University also defeated Manhattan, the Duquesne achieved their 25th triumph of the current season, and came back into the winning column.

PLAYER TAKES SWING AT REFEREE

(International News Service)
SCRANTON, Pa., Feb. 16.—A police probe was under way today into the riot which broke up the basketball game here last night between John Marshall College of Jersey City and St. Thomas' College of Scranton.

The home team was leading with eight minutes remaining to play
when the disturbance started. Referee Frank Duffy had just called a foul on Dubelier, a guard for John Marshall, and was walking away
when Dubelier, according to the police, suddenly attacked him. As the visiting player struck the referee a horde of St. Thomas players and spectators rushed onto the court and began to pummel Dubelier.

Police officers in the hall failed to hold the crowd in check and put in a call for reserves.

Game Is Halted
The angry crowd administered a severe beating to Dubelier before police reached him and rushed him to a dressing room. His face was cut and bruised.

Rosenbauer, another John Marshall player, was also beaten and was practically senseless when officers came to his aid. And after much difficulty the reserves succeeded in restoring order but it was decided to call the contest off.

Several fist fights featured the game earlier.

THE SPORT PATROL

By JOHN J. MAHER, JR.

IMITATIONS (MAYBE)
You've heard warnings Pennsylvanians imitate your favorite dance orchestras; the famous radio comedians have been impersonated frequently, and all the well-known movie stars from Garbo to Arliss have been copied over and over again. Now, for the sake of variety, the day's program will include a few artificial columns of the leading sports writers.

Constant readers of Damon Runyon will recognize the following: "This writer finds that Flemington is brim full of sports activity for anyone who has a nose for news. You can, for instance, interview the champion egg-layer, who has not yet been accused of over-emphasis even though she has outlived the best of her ancestors by many a breakfast.

"The Little New Jersey town may not be a rival metropolis of New York City but it does know its movie business. Flemington provides its guests with the same movies long before they become antiquated. This has been greatly appreciated, especially since the theaters have been all there is in the entertainment line for the guests with the exception of Nellie's tap room.

"While quaffing a few beers down at Nellie's tap room last night, the writer met Mr. Byke Ryder of the Six-Day Byke Ryder family. Of course you remember Mr. Byke Ryder. He was quite a pedaler (not peddler) around Jersey way about 1900. Two nights ago the writer was fortunate in making the acquaintance (at Nellie's tap room) of Mr. Sandlott, who used to play ball in and around Flemington with the major of the one-time great of the major leagues. Quite a character is Mr. Sandlott.

"All the writers were treated a few nights ago to a fine spaghetti meal (above Nellie's tap room), made by Mr. Enzo Fiermonte. Mr. Fiermonte proved to be quite an athlete; he mastered the spaghetti making with the finesse of a true champion."

And now for a little of Joe Williams: "Bobby Jones is not ready to give up competitive golf entirely; he is going to participate in one 1935 tourney. This reminds me of the time I viewed Bobby in action when he was the peer of goldfom. It was a beautiful day, rather warm but not uncomfortable, so and there were many fans on hand to view the match. Jack Dempsey, I believe, was an interested spectator.

"I had quite a talk with Jack that day and, among other things, he told me about the plans he had for a pending match. Jack likes golf but I guess it's only natural. In all branches of sport, the leaders generally seek out for diversion. Said Ruth is another champion who likes his golf. The scribes are certainly having a difficult time finding a job for Babe.

"But to get back to golf and Bobby Jones—As I said before, Bobby is only going to have one match this year."

David J. Walsh comes next: "The name isn't over yet, in fact it isn't going to start until tomorrow afternoon, but you can start paying off or collecting your bets immediately. In short, Southern California is going to make Pitt look like General Custer's army on the morning after. The Trojans haven't been doing so well but it is only because they are a bunch of mislaid youngsters. Said Ruth is another champion who likes his golf. The scribes are certainly having a difficult time finding a job for Babe.

"So if you have a little bet on Southern Cal., you can start celebrating right now. Who was it that first predicted Jimmy Fox would go to the Red Sox? It was your old scribe of course. Remember? I started early last summer and spent months giving details of that famous trade."

Finally, Paul Gallico: "Come 1936, you're going to be reading about a battle of the ages, a new and bigger world war, colossal matches featuring true gladiators on all sides. It isn't going to be like the previous scheduled dog fight which had a bunch of poodles yipping at the mastiffs."

"The Trojans are stronger than Goliath, the Japanese are better fortified than the Bank of England ever was, Mussolini says he means business and he really does, France doesn't claim to be greedy but she's going after as much as she can get, and Poland is getting a bit cocky too."

"To sum up the article in a few words: Europe and Asia are going to be stronger in the 1936 Olympics than they were in 1932."

That concludes the group of fictitious articles as the leading sports commentators might have written them. Runyon is, perhaps, the best writer on underworld dealings in the country; Williams writes in a rambling style; Walsh burlesques, and Gallico writes allegorically, however, they are all—each in his individual style—write what people want to read, and write it in an entertaining manner.

If the imitations do not in your judgment resemble the originals very closely, or if they are in any way below par, then it is the fault of the Patrol. The writers imitated are among the best columnists in the country, a fact which makes it very difficult for their styles to be copied. The Patrol may have fallen short in the artificial write-ups, but you must remember that if he could come very close to the style of these artists, he might also be in Europe as Gallico is, Florida with Williams, New York like Walsh, or Flemington with Runyon.

Several Classes Gather Friday
Evening In District
Near Ellwood

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 16.—Members of the Sunshine and Wide Awake classes of the Hickory Knoll Church of God held an enjoyable meeting last evening when they gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Gallaher, Wurtemburg Heights, for a combined meeting. Thirty members were in attendance.

The devotional and business periods were conducted by the president, Miss Helena Clarke. Rev. Arnold Berg, pastor of the church, gave a short talk.

Games and music occupied the attention of the guests throughout the remainder of the evening and at an appropriate time the hosts, assisted by Miss Minnie Hall, served a tempting lunch.

The next meeting will be held during the latter part of March at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jay McDonald at Riverview.

At the same time members of the Y. A. F. class of the Providence Baptist church of North Sewickley were being entertained in a pleasing manner at the home of Raymond Householder in North Sewickley township for their February meeting.

Twenty members and one guest, Wesley Neipert, participated in the various events of the evening.

Miss Mary Hazen, president of the class, had charge of the meeting with plans being formulated for a number of class activities.

A variety of diversions held the attention of the guests during the social period and later delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. F. G. Householder, assisted by her daughter Vesta.

Current Obligations

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 16.—A special installation service for the officers of the young people's society of the First Christian church will be conducted on Sunday evening, February 17, at 7:45 p. m. the hour of the regular evening service. The service will be conducted by the young people and will not only be the occasion for installing the new officers of the society but also a consecration service for all the members. A candle lighting ceremony has been prepared for the service.

With the exception of bonds held by Wayne township, all other bills have been paid in full including the high school tuition owed to the Ellwood City schools. The settlement of these bills was made possible through the payment of delinquent taxes by residents who have secured federal home loans.

It was decided to hold their annual election of teachers at the May meeting.

The health board reported that only one case of contagious disease had been found in the schools during the present year.

The members held a lengthy discussion considering the building of a new school house in the spring. This building would replace the old Burntown school. Much time and money has been expended by members during the past year with this building erected with the aid of a federal loan, but all efforts have been unsuccessful up to this time.

ELLWOOD CITY, Feb. 16.—Flashing a fast breaking and clicking offense Coach "Gandy" Benedict's Ellwood City high cagers journeyed to New Brighton last night and defeated the Roarkmen 29-21 in a fast game. In the preliminary, the Ellwood high reserves staged a last quarter rally to nose out the New Brighton high reserves 24 to 21.

The Tubers were unstoppable last night. It took them a little time to get started but after that they were never headed. Bill Cole, Ellwood forward, was the chief cog in the attack and alone had counted up eight field goals and one foul for a total of 17 points.

The score was deadlocked at six all in the initial quarter, but after that the Blue and White went to work with a vengeance and held a 14-10 edge at the half. They launched a furious attack in the ensuing period and outplayed the home team, 8-2, to make the score at the end of the period 22-12 for Ellwood. The final chapter was played on fairly even terms with Ellwood getting seven points to New Brighton's nine. This gave the Tubers much satisfaction and avenged their one point defeat here earlier in the season. Captain Robuck and Luxenberg also played a bang up game for the victors. Suskiewich and Bingham were best for the losers.

The Ellwood high reserves displayed a fast attack and remarkable rally to defeat the New Brighton Reserves. The home team had the edge, 9-4, at the end of the first quarter, 14-9, at half time, and 21-14 in the third quarter. Flanagan was the big gun in the last quarter rally that gave Ellwood victory. Houseman and Pishoneri were also outstanding. Budisack and Minit played a good game for the losers.

Renewed Weakness In Utilities Further Unsettles Market Today

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—Renewed weakness in the utilities unsettled the stock market today, and offset further strength in industrials and specialties.

Consolidated Gas sold down to a record low for the present shares. American Water Works and U. G. I. sold at new lows for several years.

American Telephone was heavy. Rains were highly irregular and mostly lower, though N. Y. Central and Union Pacific showed a tendency to advance.

Steels were sluggish and slightly lower in response to the uncertainty about the industry's operations. Youngstown operations were to hold at 60 per cent for next week.

Standard Oil issues were better in the petroleum list. Mining stocks were quiet and easier.

Offices Will Be Opened Next Monday To Arrange Adjustments Of Contracts

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Feb. 16.—The department of agriculture today announced that the corn-hog state board of review will open offices in the federal building here next Monday to arrange adjustments of swine and corn acreage contracts for Pennsylvania farmers for 1935.

The board, of which E. L. Gas-teiger, Harrisburg, is chairman, approves all corn-hog contracts before they are submitted to the AAA in Washington for final approval. The 1935 program calls for reductions of 10 per cent from the 1932-1933 average for both corn acreage and swine indemnities of 35 cents a bushel for corn and $15 per head for hogs are paid for the reduction.

Farmers in 54 counties cooperated in the 1934 program, receiving more than $500,000 in cash benefits for crop reductions, according to the department.

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Feb. 16.—Donald D. McFarland's treatise on "An Experience With Death" was being studied today as they investigated his suicide by inhaling carbon monoxide gas in a northside garage.

Police revealed that a romance of more than a decade was shattered by the 40-year-old man's death. Mrs. Jane McKnight, a sweetheart of his youth, revealed she and McFarland had parted and married others but since their divorces had been reunited and planned an early marriage.

"I'm so drowsy," he wrote as the end neared. Then it ended with: "It won't be long."

Mrs. McKnight told police he must have taken his life for business reasons.

BRICK BRADFORD—With Brocco the Buccaneer

By WILLIAM RITT and CLARENCE GRAY

Much Opposition To "Full Crew" Measures

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 15.—Beleaguered by reduced revenues due to truck competition and lighter hauls due to the depression, the railroads of Pennsylvania are faced with further handicaps in two bills which have passed the House of Representatives. House bill 304, the full crew bill, presented by Representative William J. Eroe, Jr., of Lawrence county, and House bill 311, the train limit bill, were both jammed through the House with a public hearing on them.

Both of them present grave problems for the railroads if they are passed and signed, according to railroad officials and industrial men. The added cost of operation due to the action of these bills would be about $63,000,000, it is estimated, and this money could only be raised through increasing freight rates that are already high.

This added cost would affect the purchasing power of the railroads and would result in a forced reduction of employees' wages. Railroad employees were given a 2½ per cent increase on July 1, 1934, another 2½ per cent on January 1, 1935, and a further 5 per cent will be added April 1st, which will restore the peak wage rates.

It is important to know that none at present employed on the railroads will benefit by this legislation, but every person now employed will have to pay for it.

There has been considerable capital investment in engineering designed for the sole purpose of low cost transportation through large train units. The train limit bill would be obsolete, so far as capacity is concerned, present steam locomotives, as they would be entirely too large for their work.

These bills would entirely defeat the ability of the railroads to provide low cost freight and passenger service to meet competition from other forms of transportation.

The House would not grant the railroads a hearing on these bills. Concerning similar legislation, proposed on a national scale, Federal Co-ordinator Joseph B. Eastman said to the leaders of the railroad employees' organizations:

"It seems perfectly clear to me that it is no time to add to railroad expense and that labor will suffer if this is done."

"Take legislation like the full crew bill or the train-length bill. Perhaps they can be sustained on the ground of safety, although I think you will agree that this is, at least, debatable. But as mere 'make-work' measures, what will they do to the railroads in their competition with the trucks and boats and all the other competitive agencies? Has railway labor anything to gain by putting such a handicap on their own form of transportation?"

"I do not believe that any industry in such a situation can go forward if it is prevented from operating in the most economical and efficient way."

Realizing the danger confronting the railroads and in turn the people of the state, considerable opposition has arisen to both bills. Labor realizes that it will result in a decrease of wages and employment on railroads; business men can see an increase in freight rates and the ordinary citizen sees an increase in commodity prices.

The full crew bill is in reality an excess crew bill.

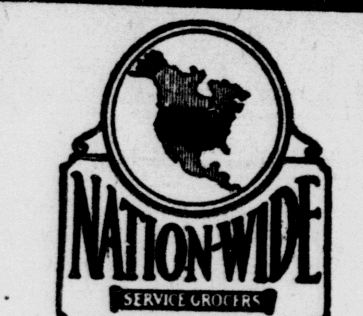

The train limit bill would mean the retirement of heavy engine equipment, which would be much too heavy for the train specified in the bill. Further, there would be the spectacle of trains being broken in two at the state line and groups of employees waiting to board incoming trains on which there would be no work to do.

Justice seems to demand a public hearing before the Senate on both bills and the true facts brought out concerning the condition of railroads.

It is said that all the blood in the body goes in and out of the heart once every minute.

Much Opposition To "Full Crew" Measures

HARRISBURG, Pa., Feb. 15.—Beleaguered by reduced revenues due to truck competition and lighter hauls due to the depression, the railroads of Pennsylvania are faced with further handicaps in two bills which have passed the House of Representatives. House bill 304, the full crew bill, presented by Representative William J. Eroe, Jr., of Lawrence county, and House bill 311, the train limit bill, were both jammed through the House with the railroads denied the courtesy of a public hearing on them.

Both of them present grave problems for the railroads if they are passed and signed, according to railroad officials and industrial men. The added cost of operation due to the action of these bills would be about $63,000,000, it is estimated, and this money could only be raised through increasing freight rates that are already high.

This added cost would affect the purchasing power of the railroads and would result in a forced reduction of employees' wages. Railroad employees were given a 2½ per cent increase on July 1, 1934, another 2½ per cent on January 1, 1935, and a further 5 per cent will be added April 1st, which will restore the peak wage rates.

It is important to know that none at present employed on the railroads will benefit by this legislation, but every person now employed will have to pay for it.

There has been considerable capital investment in engineering design for the sole purpose of low cost transportation through large train units. The train limit bill would obsolete, so far as capacity is concerned, present steam locomotives, as they would be entirely too large for their work.

These bills would entirely defeat the ability of the railroads to provide low cost freight and passenger service to meet competition from other forms of transportation.

The House would not grant the railroads a hearing on these bills. Concerning similar legislation, proposed on a national scale, Federal Co-ordinator Joseph B. Eastman said to the leaders of the railroad employees' organizations:

"It seems perfectly clear to me that it is no time to add to railroad expense, and that labor will suffer if this is done."

"Take legislation like the full crew bill or the train-length bill. Perhaps they can be sustained on the ground of safety, although I think you will agree that this is, at least, debatable. But as mere 'make-work' measures, what will they do to the railroads in their competition with the trucks and boats and all the other competitive agencies? Has railway labor anything to gain by putting such a handicap on their own form of transportation?"

"I do not believe that any industry in such a situation can go forward if it is prevented from operating in the most economical and efficient way."

Realizing the danger confronting the railroads and in turn the people of the state, considerable opposition has arisen to both bills. Labor realizes that it will result in a decrease of wages and employment on railroads; business men can see an increase in freight rates and the ordinary citizen sees an increase in commodity prices.

The full crew bill is in reality an excess crew bill.

The train limit bill would mean the retirement of heavy engine equipment, which would be much too heavy for the train specified in the bill. Further, there would be the spectacle of trains broken in two at the state line and groups of employees waiting to board incoming trains on which there would be no work to do.

Justice seems to demand a public hearing before the Senate on both bills and the true facts brought out concerning the condition of railroads.
